www.theitalianecookbook.com

Theitalianecookbook.com is a site that wishes to make and add value to the typical products and cuisine with the "Made in Italy" mark. Today there are more than 20,000 original recipes present, gathered in groups of more than 1000 in manuscripts, books and personal files, which have been reinterpreted, one by one, by professional chefs based on flavours and time of preparation.

Whoever consults the site can perform a search in a number of ways, depending on their needs and objectives.

The site can also be visited with the intent of gaining a cultural understanding of Italian traditions, with gastronomical and enological information, history and geography related issues, and interests in relation to traditional Italian products, from the use nowadays of these products, to the history of them in Italy.
